AMUSEMENT NOTES

"Henpecked Henry" Is Vehicle for Display of Rare Ability.

"Henpecked Henry" is the kind of show one takes pleasure in recommending to friends. Those Barre people who have seen it in big cities are boosting it very strongly. No chances are taken in praising this production in advance. It is entertainment of the ideal sort. There is a display of rare ability on the part of a coterie of staging and dancing farcours and chorists who are provided with an excellent vehicle. It is broad satire at times, clever farce comedy always, and laughs are certain. "Henpecked Henry" will be seen at the opera house Friday night, April 5.—adv.

Rationing Coal

Probably a small minority of the householders in the North entered the winter with a store of coal sufficient to last them until spring. Those who lacked such a supply have had a hard time of it. Coal has been dribbled out to them by bagfuls or in quarter-ton and half-ton lots. A week's supply was cause for congratulation; a month's supply, heaven-sent relief.

So these householders have severely raised their right hands and sworn that never again would they be caught in such a fix. Next winter they would have enough coal if they had to fill the cellar to do it. They would put their orders in by April and buy all that their purse could pay for.

The fuel administration approves this determination to order early, and encourages it by announcing the slight reduction of 30 cents a ton for five months. But at the same time it calls a halt on the purchasing of coal in excess of reasonable needs. It forbids coal hoarding.

Next winter's supply may be bought in the summer, but only next winter's supply and nothing more. The purchaser must not ask for more than he used in the previous 12 months. A certified statement goes with his application, and this statement is turned over to the fuel administrator by the coal dealer.

In a word, the fuel administration proposes the national rationing of domestic coal. Its aim is to provide that each household shall have its needs met, but no more than its needs. The rule which limits each purchaser to two-thirds of the season's requirements is a further guarantee of equitable distribution.

The program appears thorough and well-considered. If the fuel administration can frame and put into effect equally good programs for the production and transportation of coal, it will have the nation's thanks. It is encouraging to find that this department is showing forethought by seeking to arrange in March for a better distribution of coal next winter.—Boston Globe.

MISS MULLEN, AMERICAN, KILLED BY GERMAN GUN

Shells from Great Weapon Have Taken Five American Lives in Paris.

Paris, April 4.—Miss Emma G. Mullen of New York was killed in the church which was struck by a German shell on Good Friday. This increases to five the number of Americans who lost their lives in the church. Her body was identified yesterday at the morgue. She was born in Fox Lake, Wisconsin, in 1881, and came to Europe in May of last year as buyer for a New York firm.

trained for months, responds to orders automatically. It is the mission of the psychiatrist board to weed out men who are likely to fail in critical moments.

The testing of students' minds is going on constantly, often without their knowledge. Some tests appear foolish and provide great amusement to the students. A cadet is sometimes required to shake his head violently from side to side six or eight times, and then with his eyes closed commanded to touch his nose with his right forefinger. Inability to touch the nose indicates a lack of the sense of balance in some degree. This does not imply a mental deficiency and the desired sense of balance often can be developed in those at first lacking it.

Problems to test mental alertness are given for instant solution. A series of circles is made on a white sheet of paper by the men and they then are ordered to draw a continuous line over the first two, under the second three, over and then under and so on. A man's poise is rated by his ability to follow the confusing directions, which are given at high speed.

Sometimes a cadet is sent on an errand with instructions to do numerous things. He is rated on his ability to remember them all on the sequence in their relative importance. Often a group of men is marched by a crowded table and ordered to record later what they saw on the table in their hurried glance in passing it.

HOW BOYS CAN HELP NATION. They Can Aid By Home Gardening, Raising Pigs and Poultry and Conserving Food.

How every American boy, although separated by the Atlantic ocean from the actual theatre of the war against autocracy, can play his part in upholding American ideals, is pointed out by Secretary of Agriculture Houston in a message addressed to the Boy Scouts of America.

The secretary pledges to the boys the hearty co-operation of the federal and state agricultural agencies.

Secretary Houston's statement follows: "The splendid army of Boy Scouts of America can be of very great help to the nation in this time of world need. The war can be won only if we deliver the men, the ships and the food in sufficient number and quantities to make our war program effective. You as boy scouts can greatly aid by growing home vegetable gardens, raising pigs and poultry, conserving food by canning and drying for home use and in many other ways open to you."

"Will you not help your country again this year even in a bigger and a better way than you did during the summer of 1917? Your task will be to 'beat your own record' in food production and conservation. May your motto for 1918 be, 'every scout to feed a soldier and one other'."

"I desire to extend to you the hearty good will and co-operation of the officials of the United States department of agriculture, also that of the co-operative club leaders of boys' and girls' extension work at the agricultural colleges, who will be glad to assist you in your work."

EAST MONTPELIER
